

Back From The Grave

The Crown

Feel the presence of me, risen from behind death
Invoked by lovers' touch, seduced tempting lust
Pulled back into this world, in that, their breathtaking flesh
Take form in woman's womb, reborn! By faith to fulfill

When you have come to the end, will you stay or go on?
When you have seen the light shine, will you end there or try
To seek a deeper line? To fill the hollow inside?
You just watch your moves, cause I am back from the grave!

Lazarus returned from the velvet deathzone!
I've walked out in his footsteps,
there's not a hell I cannot endure
Lucifer rose in revenge and glory!
I seek to follow his footsteps so
I can spread my wings, back from the grave!

When you have come to the end, will you stay or go on?
When you have seen the light shine, will you end there or try
To seek a deeper line? To fill the hollow inside?
You just watch your moves, cause I am back from the grave!

Lazarus returned from the velvet deathzone!
I've walked out in his footsteps,
there's not a hell I cannot endure
Lucifer rose in revenge and glory!
I seek to follow his footsteps so
I can spread my wings, back from the grave!

With horror and reverence,
staring at the face of the night open wide
My soul drowned in death,
endless chambers so awesome and terrible
By will I returned!
I have been here before, now I'm back to wage war
Live an undead dream, the pain of lifetimes call!

Hidden secrets old as time itself, reach in and touch their flame...
it's burning back from the grave!!