Changing Pilots

The Departure

I wish I could see your face It would be a picture I feel nothing now I feel nothing And your eyes light up At the thought of someone Giving you what I should have

And the thought of being lonely And the thought of being lonely Oh the thought of being lonely Oh the thought of being lonely

She looks nothing like you do

If only you could see her now She'd be a picture Hanging on the wall Of some new exhibition Light falls to dark And you think that someone is Taking your place Oh they're taking it

And the thought of being lonely And the thought of being lonely Oh the thought of being lonely Oh the thought of being lonely

She looks nothing like you do Then she paints She paints her face to suit

She looks nothing like you do

She looks nothing like you do Then she paints She paints her face to suit

She looks on