World Below

The Horrors

My dreams are all I can give you No second chances now There's only one way of knowing It's just a moment

Hold on, one day old twisting your way through the clouds Hold on, morning comes Braiding these flames on the Earth

Looking down at the world below Looking out of your cold window Twisting over, restless in your bed Looking down at the world below The life beyond the open window twisting over

Bright lights overhead Always, all times The white noise never ends Always, all times Bright lights overhead

I, I've got no way of knowing how these days will run I've got no way of trusting these dreams that grow out of my reach

Looking down at the ghosts below Looking down through the closed window Rolling oceans over in your bed Looking down on the world below Your life delayed, your days are slow Twisting over

Bright lights overhead Always, all times The white noise never ends Always, all times Bright lights overhead Bright lights overhead Bright lights overhead
