

Last Day That I Cared

The Letter Black

Take your broken promises
Take your fractured lies
Put them in the same place
Your courage went to die
Weakened by your tongue
I've never felt so strong
You never stood for anything
Now you stand alone

Today's the first day I ever dared
To stop changing who I am
For someone never there
You made your choices
So tell me what's fair
Tomorrow you'll be well aware
Yesterday's the last day that I cared

Give me back the days I wasted
Give me back my time
No longer will your ego
Keep me so confined
It's only wishful thinking
Once the waters start to swell
Every time the ship was sinking
You only tried to save yourself

Today's the first day I ever dared
To stop changing who I am
For someone never there
You made your choices
So tell me what's fair
Tomorrow you'll be well aware
Yesterday's the last day that I cared

Today's the first day I ever dared
To stop changing who I am
For someone never there
You made your choices
So tell me what's fair
Tomorrow you'll be well aware
Yesterday's the last day that I cared

Some things just can't be repaired
Yesterday's the last day that I cared
Some things just can't be repaired
Yesterday's the last day that I cared