

10 Seconds Too Late

The Movieline

Yesterday I walked away, put up my flag.
It changed your face. Your smile decayed from what I said.
The smile just melted off your face and stained your shirt.
It burned a hole into your chest, looks like it hurt.

You turned away to save your face, but to no avail.
Still have the marks of flesh and blood on my carpet.
The smile just melted off your face and stained your shirt.
It burned a hole into your chest, looks like it hurt.

I didn't say anything. Just watched you melt.
Just watched you melt away.

Yeah, I know I don't deserve you.
Yesterday I watched you leave ten seconds too late. Yesterday.