

Takin' the Train

The Saw Doctors

Spanish kids share drinks and talk so loud,
We're in by the fire as the sun goes down,
I'd meet you after work above in the Square,
Oh tonight I kicked the wall but you're not there.

I hope they'll understand,
The town can't force your hand.

Bushin' down the arch in the Summer mist,
How could I forget your rainy kiss?
Lookin' out where the river meets the sea,
Oh I thought it was forever you and me.

I hope they'll understand,
The town can't force your hand.
So I'm takin' the train,
Through this soft morning rain,
And I'm heading for the green hills far away.

I hope they'll understand,
The town can't force your hand.
So I'm takin' the train,
Through this soft morning rain,
And I'm heading for the green hills far away.

So I'm takin' the train,
Through this soft Galway rain,
And I'm heading for the green hills far away.
