

Seasick Emotions

The Wood Brothers

All the blue sky is gone
How can I get out of bed
This hurricane in my head

I'm just a boat in a storm
How can I know where to go
When everything that I know
Is already lost in the wind

Sailing through a hurricane
Blowing my mind
The seasick emotions go around
And around and around and around
And around

There's a voice in the rain
I wish it would speak in my ear
I never hear what it's saying

So I roll over again
Pull the sheets over my head
And all alone in my bed
Already lost in the wind

Sailing through a hurricane
Blowing my mind
Seasick emotions go around
And around and around and around
And around

Sailing through a hurricane
Sailing through a hurricane
Blowing my mind
Seasick emotions go around
And around and around and around
And around and around and around and around
And around and around and around and around
And around
