

Without Desire

The Wood Brothers

I can't live without desire
I can't live without desire
It's the fuel in my fire
I can't live without desire

I can't live without desire
I can't live without desire
It's the electricity in my wire
I can't live without desire

If I didn't want anything
Why would I rise
Why would I sing

If I didn't want you
Would I be alone
If I didn't want shelter
Would I have a home
If I didn't want peace
Would I cast the first stone

I can't live without desire
I can't live without desire
It's the air in my tire
I can't live without desire

If I didn't want anything
Why would I rise
Why would I sing

If I didn't want to money
Would I work all day
If I didn't wanna do right
Would I go astray
If I didn't want love
Would I fade away

I can't live without desire
It's the electricity in my wire
If I didn't want anything
Why would I rise why would I sing

If I didn't want anything
Why would I rise
Why would I sing
