

On the Edge

Tokio Hotel

It's getting light outside
She is still there but no one cares
They sang her, 'Happy Birthday' yesterday without her
Do you want to see yourself flying through the night?

This gift is what you need
You're gonna be alright
Eyes close and fall

Her first time on the edge
The scars will stay forever
Side to side with death
A moment that feels better

Darkness and light
Are blinding her sight
She's not coming back

It's getting light outside
She cannot sleep 'cause time stands still Someone's hand is touching her, she has no will

Each time when it hurts, she just feels so alone
She doesn't care at all
Her memories are long gone
Eyes close and fall

And closer to the edge
The scars will stay forever
Side to side with death
This time feels even better

Darkness and light
Are blinding her sight
She's not coming back

She shuts the door
She longs for more and more and more
She shuts the door
She longs for more and more and more
Just once more

Everyone is watching
Her arms are so sore
But she doesn't care anymore

And falling from the edge
The scars will stay forever
Side to side with death
This last time even better

Darkness and light
Are blinding her sight
She's not coming back, not coming back

The sky is casting over
Her last wish stays unsaid