Tom Paxton

There is something in my life today There is something that I'm sure is here to stay It's all because of you, you know And since you came my way There is something in my life today There is something that I'm sure you know There is something in your smile that tells me so And even as I say it, I can see the smile grow With that something that I'm sure you know How'd you like to hear my deepest secret No one ever heard these words from me Not from a lack of longing to say - I love you But the words wouldn't come till you came to me Now there's something so completely new And it's all to do with love, and loving you And everything is changing, now In ways I never knew Since I found myself in love with you How'd you like to hear my deepest secretu No one ever heard these words from me Not from a lack of longing to say - I love you But the words wouldn't come till you came to me Now there's something so completely new And it's all to do with love and loving you And everything is changing, now In ways I never knew Since I found myself in love with you Oh it's all to do with loving you Since I found myself in love with yo