

Torero

Tony Christie

She was just a child
when they fell in love.
And he was everything that she'd been dreaming of.
She was proud to be the princess of a brave matador.
'Cause she knew that it was her that he was always fighting for.
She brings him spanish roses
'cause she can still remember.
All of the spanish roses
her lover gave to her.
Torero te quiero.
Torero te quiero.
And now he's just a dream
that she used to love.
'Cause deep inside her heart she'll hold the memory of the days she used to watch him as the crowd cheered his name.
To the day he lost the battle and they carried him away.
She brings him spanish roses
'cause she can still remember.
All of the spanish roses
her lover gave to her.
Torero te quiero.
Torero te quiero...