I heard on Monday I didn't shed a single tear Was it anger or just fear I wish I could have told you How much I cared and I'd be there But, tears can't ever bring you back They only stain I lost what I loved You'll never return This life's become so irreversible My damn tragedy My eyes how they burn This life is so irreversible I tried to run away To leave this place I wandered through the streets alone I'm surrounded By a world without you now Who's to blame for all of this Could it be me I lost what I loved You'll never return This life's become so irreversible My damn tragedy My eyes how they burn This life is so irreversible So long to all you left behind Did you think of me just once that miserable night Want a way to be you Take my life too I lost what I loved You'll never return This life's become so irreversible My damn tragedy My eyes how they burn This life is so irreversible (I lost what I loved) How could you leave me here with all of them (You'll never return) It's taken me so long to clear out the past (My damn tragedy) I'd give anything to stand with you again (This life's become so...)

So Irreversible
