Melancholia

Visions of Atlantis

A short walk to genius A single step to insanity Everything`s both of them And I'm the one between.

Enjoy the silent nothingness The greyness fading calm Time is running by at least for you The world stops spinning for a while. A bittersweet pill The beauty of sadness Infesting your will You're passing the entrance To my world...Melancholia

I can resist from my will turning into yours I can avoid those state of regress Come to my reign Forever to be bound Just for a while for a moment of vanity

Regret the inner nothingness And all your deeds undone Focus on the things you hate Day by day until it calls you home

Expect eternal lethargy, an unproductive man Learn to push yourself further and drown in the struggle within

Stuck in the past, hunting your shadows no moment to last, to evermore