The Golden Age

Woodkid

Walking through the fields of gold
In the distance, bombs can fall
Boy we're running free
Facing light in the flow
And in the cherry trees
We're hiding from the world
But the golden age is over
But the golden age is over

Boy, we're dancing through the snow Waters freeze, the wind blows Did you ever feel We're falling as we grow No I would not believe The light could ever go But the golden age is over But the golden age is over

Listen, I can hear the call As I'm walking through the door

Did you ever dream
We'd miss the mornings in the sun
The playgrounds in the streets
The bliss of slumberland
Boy, we are family
No matter what they say
But boys are meant to flee
And run away one day

When golden age is over When the golden age is over But the golden age is over The golden age is over
