You walk on higher ground Like the holy ghost I haven't found The mighty words you speak They bounce off the strong but are heard by the weak Their pennies just keep on comin' in Their spirits are still soakin' in their sins Some say they're even born again See what you can find at the end of the line There's no end in time at the end of the line There's no peace of mind at the end of the line The time has finally come To relinquish the throne that doesn't belong For only you can tell If the pardon will come or will you burn in hell You tried to recover dirty stones From love filthy games played on the road Now it is you who stands alone See what you can find at the end of the line There's no end in time at the end of the line There's no peace of mind at the end of the line You can run, you can't hide at the end of the line Their pennies just keep on comin' in The spirits still soaking in his sins Some say they're even born again See what you can find at the end of the line There's no end in time at the end of the line There's no peace of mind at the end of the line You can run, you can't hide at the end of the line And there's no peace of mind at the end of the line Oh, no, no, no At the end of the line At the end of the line At the end of the line At the end of the line
