All That

When I woke up this mornin' The sun had just dawned in My bed or your bed? Was the first or the last time I don't care, it feels right I'm not, not stoppin' all night

Things fall apart and in a part you feel distant Reactions are instant if emotions are constant Let's say for instance that you had a conscience Would you take the time then to weigh out the options

All that, all that You can give me all that All that, all that All that, all that You can give me all that All that, all that

Stay here in the mornin' You can take it all back All back, all back Lay here if you want to You can give me all that All that, all that

Never crossed my mind Have I crossed the lines? Or is there more to find, more to find I think inside I'm mortalised Mortalised, more to life

Comin' from both sides An attack of the mind Like Optimus Prime in his prime Kick it, don't skip it, to the finish line This minute's mine

All that, all that You can give me all that All that, all that (You can give me all that) All that, all that You can give me all that All that, all that

Stay here in the mornin' You can take it all back All back, all back Lay here if you want to You can give me all that All that, all that

[Instrumental]

All that, all that You can give me all that All that, all that (You can give me all that) All that, all that You can give me all that All that, all that

Stay here in the mornin' You can take it all back All back, all back Lay here if you want to You can give me all that All that, all that
