Sirens sounding out, are we going to war A film of yesterday on a broken down door Send me something real to ignore or explore And I'll show you all the things that I saw

Today
The words don't mean enough for us to say
For us to say
Today
To steal the moment that we gave away
We gave away
Gave it away

Can't remember when, but it's happened before Saw it all played out through a crack in the door Send me something good for the way that I feel And I'll show you all the things that I've seen

Today
The words don't mean enough for us to say
For us to say
Today
To steal the moment that we gave away
We gave away

Today

We are the light that travels into space Into space

We are the light that travels into space We are the light that travels into space We are the light that travels into space We are the light that travels into space We are the light that travels into space
