

I'll take a look in this mirror
I can't tell who's staring back at me
I'm just a stranger in my very own body
Yet now I have control

Stand up, it's time to face me like a man
I'm tired of running, this needs to end
You're just a figment of my mind, a mild hallucination
One quick thought and your existence is over

Bow to me, I am now your king
I will be your savior, yeah!

Here stands my own paradise
I could only construct within my dreams
Be careful where you tread, the line is too thin
Cross me once and I'll be sure to end you

I am not forgiving
I am the decider on how my life is suppose to go

Come at me now, I pray
I will destroy everything you know and love
For once I have control
And now the tables turn

Here stands my own paradise
I could only construct within my dreams
Be careful where you tread
Cross me once and I'll be sure to end you