

It's not too late to tell them
It's not too late to love
Don't you say
It's over, it's over now
So go ahead and tell now

Don't you say
It's over, it's over now

When I was younger, yo, I thought I could dream big
The second I got older though, I saw it as dreamin'
Your school is never focused on them sort of achievements
And yourself is never someone that you're taught to believe in
So I started an apprenticeship, not great yet
I'm workin' twelve hour shifts, what they want, they get
You do your rappin' on the weekends is what they said
I never thought it could be more and then along came PEZ
Who instilled this belief that we only live once
So fuck goin' softly, let's blow this bitch up
So we grindin' every day to be labelled as the kings
'Cause it doesn't fit them but we know it fits us
And we actually succeeded at the shit that we were aimin' for Prayin' for a life that we started goin' straight towards
Topped charts, got cars, livin' like we rockstars
With the right chemicals, comin' down was not hard
Made the most when it started to pop
Can't explain how insane all the partyin' got
But for me, it was harder to stop
But when I did, bein' isolated just became a part of my job
But we were given this life to head down similar paths
But then reality is gonna change the distance you last
I know there's shit in our past that had us driftin' apart
But comin' back, it's like we never spent a minute apart
And that's a real one

It's not too late to tell them
It's not too late to love
Don't you say
It's over, it's over now
So go ahead and tell now

Don't you say
It's over, it's over now

When you fightin' other rappers in this war to drop hits
And makin' sure the crown is what you're walkin' off with
The main thing you'll learn when it's comin' to your friends
You gotta stick with those who stuck with you before you got big
Otherwise newcomers gonna get in your head
So stay grounded by keepin' someone genuine there
Now after comin' back to life and reconnectin' again
I've lived life by myself, it's so much better with friends
I love my parents to death but know I've put 'em through hell
When I had to fix some shit only professionals could
I didn't even need to ask when I had to go away
My boy Mo made sure that my parents were good
Booked my first tour back, feelin' pretty unsure

'Cause the toll that is taken had me hittin' a wall
Unsure about myself and the shit I perform
So now he's even rollin' with me just to give me support
Family is everythin' and nothin's changin'
To say that I am grateful's an understatement
When it's comin' to who my family is
Yo, he also went and showed me that he doesn't even need my blood to make it
My addiction, I know none of it was chill
But still, I'm grateful for what some of it revealed
My biggest damn regret as you've been raisin' up your kids
Is how it made me missin' out on bein' uncle Six for real
But I'm back now

It's not too late to tell them
It's not too late to love
Don't you say
It's over, it's over now
So go ahead and tell now

Don't you say
It's over, it's over now
