

So you're feeling down and out
Like nobody wants to see you around
And you wanna just fly away
Leave the city for another place

Waiting for the next sky train
Standing in the rain
Am I to understand you're never coming back again

Don't you go, don't run away
What kind of choice can you make
When you fall away and crawl into a spell
You lose the gift of yourself
How can I follow you, what are you gonna do
I should be moving on

So you go drinking from the fountain of dreams
To discover that your darkness still bleeds
But too often your mouth runs dry
The thirst is killing you and you don't have too much time

Cause you have never ever known
How to live with the burning bliss of being alone