Slander

98 Mute

Maybe I shouldn t have said it Of course I was too quick to jud ge Words swiftly spoken may be unrefined I didn□t know optimism was a crime Hey I have got enough problems Don It need extra ba ggage from you Pointless games and taxing headtrips Unfortunate side effects of your friendship I may have slipped won It happe n again my legs are beneath me now For the last time cut down f rom behind I will be ready next time ItOs no big deal IOve gott en used to being let down I just didnOt think that I would ever be let down by you Your antics are always expected Passed off as being your nature Get away with murder Dcause youDre just be ing you A modern day version of ShakespeareDs licensed fool Not to say that IDm not guilty Emotions get the best of me Quick t o fight a nasty habit Can□t keep my cool if I never had it I ha d so much faith in you Dtil I saw your true colors bleeding thr ough YouDre a joke that I donDt get with a punchline IDm trying hard to forget I don I want to carry the burden Of holding thi s grudge any longer What to do, do I made amends? Or discard th is joker from my deck of friends? Slander you said it I heard i t But you know I never deserved it So locked to you the world i n my head I know I should have never let you in