

Lost Control

A Flock of Seagulls

I lost control
With everybody that I used to know.
I lost my home
And now I find myself out on the street.
I lost my way,
While walking through a city I don't know.
I lost my shoes,
While running from the nightmare in the snow.

The friend
Had led to be the devil in your side
The girl
Who's rid me of all reason with her life.
But I had to smile
When meeting alcoholics of the street.
'Cause now I know,
It's not the way the world is supposed to be

But you don't understand me,
It's not the way I used to be.
But doesn't it seem so strange
If you don't do the exchange?

Met a ghost,
Of somebody I didn't recognize.
Said "Hello",
Turned out to be a blessing in disguise.
When he said "Your soul,
Is hanging from the branches of a tree".
Turned around,
I recognized the face and it was me.

But I lost control!
I lost control!
I lost control!
I lost control, woaoaoaoah!
