

Keep the Homefires Burning

A House

You say you're dying, for me
In order to die you must first be alive
You say your hearts broken, with the strain
That when we're apart, your beeding heart has left a strain

And when you feel a flicker
Threw another log on
Keep the homefires burning
For me, for me

You say it's getting colder now, for you
So when you feel the ice thicken keep the sunnyside up
So come on now, lift your head
If you're going to weather the storm
You'd better wrap yourself up
Warm, warm

And when you feel a flicker

Threw another log on
Keep the homefires burning
For me, for me

You say you have, say you have needs
And you have disapproving thoughts sbout other men
Playing with your conscience, like, can you or can't you
Last the pace, have you what it takes or risk all that's at sta ke

And when you feel a flicker
Threw another log on
And when you feel a flicker
Threw another log on
Keep the homefires burning
For me, for me
Keep the homefires burning
For me, for me
