Remember

A Killer's Confession

They say that blood is thicker than water
Seems yours is running a little thin
Or did you forget

I'm calling out from my soul
Waiting for a sign to show me
That you're now alone
Do you feel nothing is owed?
Now that you have played me
Empty draining me low

Won't turn my blind side to your knife any longer
But every scar carved on my back makes me stronger

Cause I will bow to you for never
And you know my name

I hope that you remember
I hope that you remember
I'll bow to you for never
I hope that you remember
Remember...

Brace for the truth to be told
Trapped in your own web you drown in what you have spun
I watch the venom take hold
And once the poison spreads the damage can't be undone

Won't turn my blind side to your knife any longer
But every scar carved on my back makes me stronger

Cause I will bow to you for never
And you know my name

I hope that you remember
I hope that you remember
I'll bow to you for never
I hope that you remember
Remember...

You love the hate that you've sown
The only life that you know
I finally cut the cord
Let it go
And watched you fall

I'm calling out from my soul
Waiting for a sign to show me
That you're now alone
Do you feel nothing is owed?
Now that you have played me
And you know my name

I hope that you remember
I hope that you remember
I'll bow to you for never
I hope that you remember

Remember...
