

Everything Always Goes Wrong

A Place to Bury Strangers

Waves wash over everything on the ground
The sun's reflection blocked by a sound
The sound of life just as it's ripped apart
I'd say these words to you
But fear that my heart would stay away

You took my hand so I showed you the place
Now it's grown empty you can see it in my face
Then the sound and it rips me in half
Who'd say these things to you
If it wasn't meant to last not today

Love love love love

What comes out nails your head to the floor
I say I'm sorry as I'm walking out the door