A-Wall

You know I was really, really thinking about some things
Last night like um
About like death and afterlife and all that like
You know we have no fucking clue about that shit like
We'll never ever get to know what it's like to die
Until we die
And even then like what happens after that
Do you-do you remember anything from your life or
You start over

I been waiting for a hundred years (All my life)
I been searching for a hundred years (That's a long time)
I would spend about hundred years (Baby be mine)
With you (With you)
With you (With you)
With you (With you)
With you
And she said, and she said
When it's your time to go
Would you go? Would you go?
Or would you rather live forever?
Come on, come on
Let me know, let me know
Can't stay long, can't stay long
So take a sip up out my chalice
And she said, and she said
When it's your time to go
Would you go? Would you go?
Or would you rather live forever?
Come on, come on
Let me know, let me know
Can't stay long, can't stay long
So take a sip up out my chalice
Woah

I took a sip of youth juice got me feeling just right
Way to boost my confidence like I'm never gon' die
Fast forward a century, got me thinking somethin' wrong
This a curse not a gift and I don't want this anymore
'Cause this shit getting old
The world been getting cold
And all my loved ones gone
I swear I'm so alone
If I give you this drink
Then you gon' never ever grow
At least you'll be with me
If you want that, girl come on

I been waiting for a hundred years (All my life)
I been searching for a hundred years (That's a long time)
I would spend about hundred years (Baby be mine)
With you (With you)
With you (With you)
With you (With you)
With you
And she said, and she said
When it's your time to go

Would you go? Would you go?
Or would you rather live forever?
Come on, come on
Let me know, let me know
Can't stay long, can't stay long
So take a sip up out my chalice
And she said, and she said
