

Dropout

A-Wall

Can you love me in my darkest hours? Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah yeah
Even when the sun goes down?
Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah
Can you love me in my darkest hours? Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah yeah
Even when the sun goes down?
Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah yeah

Dropout
Stupid
How you get so foolish?
How you catch the ball?
Still find a way to lose it
It's time to flip the fucking page
And join a fucking movement
No time for workin' dead-end jobs
My money barely moving
I been thinking
'Bout a lotta things
That circle round my head
Sometimes some things won't ever change
So far from god I bet that he don't even know my name
Still every night up in my mind I hear them angels sing

Can you love me in my darkest hours? Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah yeah
Even when the sun goes down?
Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah
Can you love me in my darkest hours? Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah yeah
Even when the sun goes down?
Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah yeah

I told my cousin and my sister not to follow suit
Just look at me I'm the example of what not to do
I used to see them as a version of my younger self
But now they grown and I can tell that they don't need my help
Sometimes I wish I met lover in my later years
So she wouldn't have to watch me blow my undergrad career
I'm waiting on the day she wake up and see what I see
Just a fucking bum holding her back that's when she up and leaves
And to my family I know it's hard to keep me off the ground
The grandson number one who never comes around
Where's your degree did you forget that your the golden child?

Only want to best for you instead you go and shoot 'em down
I almost left to be a pilot and never told nobody
I almost left to California and never told nobody
Don't take it personal I'm used to ghosting everybody
And I promise one day I'ma make it right with everybody

Can you love me in my darkest hours? Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah yeah
Even when the sun goes down?
Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah
Can you love me in my darkest hours? Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah yeah
Even when the sun goes down?
Yeah
Oh baby please don't judge me now
Yeah yeah
