The Tale Of Two Doves

A Whisper in the Noise

So you've heard the tale of the man Who went sinking deep into love Like a dove

I remember him Had his eyes open wide to life 'Til the time the love died

He was screaming into life

So you're heard the tale of the girl Who went sinking deep into mud After love

She the black and blue She who never knew how to cry At the time her love died

She was screaming into life