When Will We Learn

A Wilhelm Scream

It's all the same, putting others down to take their place
Wasting away, strung high on attitude
Did we forget we all came from the same start?
It's all the same, dissent in the name of unity
We hear your words
But where are the actions to merit the glory you say you deserv e?
It's just a claim

It's all the same, putting others down to take their place
Wasting away, strung high on attitude
Did we forget we all came from the same start?
It's all the same, dissent in the name of unity
We hear your words
But where are the actions to merit the glory you say you deserv e?
It's just a claim

Eyes blink and we grow older
Why not wiser?
Differences that once decorated now divide
Hands throwing hatred only waste their time
Time that could build us up, instead of keeping us at bay
Instead of building walls brick by brick
They've gotten tall enough to black our minds
But now it's time they fall

Looks like we need to step back
And learn to value the person inside when we stare across a cro wded room
Release all of the preconceived notions that haunt us
It's sad to see so many entertained at their own expense
Talking such good game, casting off every shred of integrity
When will we learn we're all the same
