

Maybe

Aaron Cole

Maybe I'll have nothing left to say
Maybe I'll fall off and fadeaway
Maybe they was right when they said I can't
Or maybe things will never change
Maybe
Maybe
Maybe they was right when they said I can't
Or maybe things will never change

They say I'm bragging when I tell em I pull up in foreign cars with wife and children
You would too if you grew up broken home no pot to piss in My mamma Wonder Woman I call her my heroine
But my daddy on dope and my granny on heroine
Aye labels tried to kill me
Artist tried to look me over
My wife almost died in car wreck
It's a blessing that I'm sober
I got racks on racks with plaques on plaques but I could never picture that Went right next door to my house they selling crack
See pressure burns pipes and makes diamonds
I'm harder to kill but you can try it
Yahweh only one kept me alive and
But I ain't falling off and I ain't lying yuh yuh

Maybe I'll fall off and fadeaway
Maybe they was right when they said I can't
Or maybe things will never change
Maybe
Maybe
Maybe they was right when they said I can't
Or maybe things will never change

Yeah
I get in my head a lot
Trying to not to go insane
But that's hard when everybody's watching
Everyone got they opinions
Everybody think they know me
I pour my heart out on these records
And tell y'all the things
That I wouldn't even tell the homies
Like I don't talk to half the family
Cause everybody move fugazi
Ain't seen you since my uncle funeral
Got the nerve to ask me for a favor
I'd rather be left alone to be honest
I don't even leave my home to be honest
And maybe the things
They was saying was right
I should pack up the microphone and go to- Never that God gave the vision, I'ma run with it
Til the wheels falling off, yeah
I done seen, a lotta things,
But I ain't never lose the pivot
Not at all, yeah

I don't even gotta say it
They know where I'm from
The boy been going crazy
I ain't never need nobody confirmation
Couldn't care about a yes no or maybe

Maybe I'll fall off and fadeaway
Maybe they was right when they said I can't
Or maybe things will never change
Maybe
Maybe
Maybe they was right when they said I can't
Or maybe things will never change

No more maybe I'm coasting
God the only one I boast in
Add me then minus you and double that like the olsens
This here for my folks
This for the young dude on dope
God love me just like he love you so just know you got hope
I know they laughing at me
They praying I lose my seat
I'm that thing ya momma said don't touch cause I'm real self asteam
He living in me so it's 2 in 1 like it's Hannah Montana Can't fail so it's As up like I'm straight from Atlanta I'm focused now and you can tell from my grammar
Reminiscing bout the 7th grade when I only wanted they approval
I almost stunted growth but now I stunt my growth God always knew I was usef ul
That's when I realized that I had a bigger calling safe to say that year was crucial
The serpent in my ear but I just fight the fear my right hook is too brutal

Maybe I'll fall off and fadeaway
Maybe they was right when they said I can't
Or maybe things will never change
Maybe
Maybe
Maybe they was right when they said I can't
Or maybe things will never change
