

Raspberry Layer Cake

Aaron Gillespie

I've been sad and I've been broke
That people call me a joke
I've done wrong and I've done right
Lost every will to fight
I've been searching for what love is
Is it a story written for me?
Is it alive or barely breathing?
Is it this very song I'm singing?

Or a raspberry layer cake
When no one else gives a damn
Staying out way too late
Playing every card you have
Is learning to fly learning to walk
Starting over again
When everything you have is taken away
Like a lie on your wedding day

I walk with a limp and my legs are bowed
I was born that way though I wasn't sure
I was made a bastard son
By an outlaw father who collected guns
I've been hoping for love to fill
A hole left in me, it's growing deeper still Playing records and singing songs
Begging the crowd to sing along

Or a raspberry layer cake
When no one else gives a damn
Staying out way too late
Playing every card you have
Is learning to fly learning to walk
Starting over again
When everything you have is taken away
Like a lie on your wedding day

A lie on your wedding day
Lie on your wedding day
Lie on your wedding day

Or a raspberry layer cake
When no one else gives a damn
Staying out way too late
Playing every card you have
Is learning to fly learning to walk
Starting over again
When everything you have is taken away
Like a lie on your wedding day

It's just a lie on your wedding day
A lie on your wedding day
