

Hard To Miss

Aaron Pritchett

She could be out in the middle of nowhere
Or walking downtown on a crowded boulevard
No matter where she is
She's hard to miss

Like a streak of midnight lightning across the sky
A summer sunset on a west bound road
From her green eyes to her crimson lips
She's hard to miss

And it's killing me all I've got's a memory
Of watching her leaving the way that she did
I go to sleep thinking about her I wake up without her
It's darker than life is she's hard to miss

She's in the back of my mind on a good day
She consumes me on the ones gone bad
When I laugh when I cry there she is
She's hard to miss

She could be out in the middle of nowhere
Or walking downtown on a crowded boulevard
No matter where she is
She's hard to miss

She could be out in the middle of nowhere
Or walking downtown on a crowded boulevard
No matter where she is
She's hard to miss

She could be out in the middle of nowhere
Or walking downtown on a crowded boulevard
No matter where she is
She's hard to miss
