

You Are The Woman

Aaron Tippin

You are the woman
Who started a fire in my soul
And to this day it's still burning out of control
With my final breath your name will cross my tongue

You are the woman
There'll never be another one
I've stared into the eyes of strangers
Wondering if I'd ever find you girl
The one that I could build my dreams around

To fill my empty world
And now I look at you and know it's true
My search is finally done
This love that I've held on to for so long
Was meant for only one

You are the woman beautiful woman
God only knows just why you chose to love only me
You are the woman, oh precious woman
Right here and now I give this vow
There'll never be another one

Right here and now, I give this vow
Oh, there'll never be another one