When All Those Aggies Move To Austin

Aaron Watson

You're the devil's daughter in disguise So don't try to hide the fire in your eyes You must be stupid cause you just don't have a clue Even hell frozen over is warmer than my love for you

When all those Aggies move to Austin And Beaumont is covered in snow When the wind don't blow in Amarillo Darlin' then you can come back home

You sure can shake your little round behind
But your hour glass figure won't buy my time
You know how to work it Lord knows it's worked before
This time you leave your butt will have the imprint of the fron t door

When Fort Worth is east of Dallas And Texans forget the Alamo When Lubbock opens up a ski resort And the Brazos is straighter than an arrow

When all those Aggies move to Austin And Beaumont is covered in snow When the wind don't blow in Amarillo Darlin' then you can come back home But don't hold your breath Then you can come back home
