

Rather Be Lonely

Abbey Glover

Stop wait a minute
I'm not sure
What I'm doing
And I don't wanna say
Something I'll regret

Kiss me in the evening
But leave in the morning
My heart isn't something that you'll get

Life's my game
I play and I don't get played
But you're making me feel some sort
Feel some sort of way
I was cold as ice
But you're making me feel so warm and nice
You feel like Sun rays hitting my skin
On a summers day
But the risk isn't worth it
Rather be lonely than hurting
But the risk isn't worth it
Rather be lonely than hurting

Stop pause keep on going
My hearts overflowing
But I don't want you knowing
About how you're making me feel
Is it really worth it
If I give you my heart you'd only break it
Surely true loves only in movies
And it's not real

Life's my game
I play and I don't get played
But you're making me feel some sort
Feel some sort of way
I was cold as ice
But you're making me feel so warm and nice
You feel like Sun rays hitting my skin
On a summers day
But the risk isn't worth it
Rather be lonely than hurting
But the risk isn't worth it
Rather be lonely than hurting

But when you kiss my lips
Forget I'm playing
I want you, I want this
But when you kiss my lips
Forget I'm playing
I want you, I want this
Forget I'm playing

Life's my game

But you're making me feel some sort
But you're making me feel so warm and nice
On a summers day
