

We Go Together Like

Abby Anderson

(Ooh... ooh... ooh...)

Dark hair and a white magnolia
Subway in New York City
Makin' out on a basement sofa
Staircase and prom-dress pretty

Bonfires and a letterman jacket
Rope swings and small-town summers
Front porch, first-kiss magic Backseat and brand-new lovers

Every sunset has a sunrise and
Every firework has a July
Every left needs a right hand to hold
Just one of those things
That you don't know why
But it just feels right
You and I go together like
Ooh... ooh... ooh...

Two names in a concrete driveway
Cracker Jacks and a baseball game
Tin roof and the pourin' rain
Your voice sayin' my name

Every sunset has a sunrise and
Every firework has a July
Every left needs a right hand to hold
Just one of those things
That you don't know why
But it just feels right
You and I go together like
Ooh... ooh... ooh...

Bendy straw and cherry cola
My head leanin' on your shoulder
That same joke that your grandpa told ya
Hands up on a roller coaster

Every sunset has a sunrise and
Every firework has a July
Every left needs a right hand to hold
Just one of those things
That you don't know why
But it just feels right
You and I go together like
Ooh... ooh... ooh...

We go, we go together like that
Just like that
Baby, baby, oh yeah

(Ooh... ooh... ooh...)
