

Forget

Abe Parker

I lost my heart at sweet sixteen
And all these years I've spent trying to get it back
I've still got love but it's all in pieces
Somewhere at the end of her cul de sac
The holes you left I thought no one could fill
Until the Sunday afternoon that we met
For all the pain I don't want to remember
You're the only thing that helps me forget

I've been to the bottom before, Jack Daniels
I've been up on stage trying to get [?]
No pretty faces, no moon light candles
Could replace all of those cold memories
You came along and just like nothing it happened
I could feel my broken heart beat again
Give me a shot of your sweet amnesia
You're the only thing that helps me forget

Make me forget
Make me forget
Make me forget, [?]
Make me forget
Make me forget
Make me forget
Make me forget, [?]
Make me forget

With every memory you and I make together
I can feel it fade like a silhouette
For all the pain I don't want to remember
You're the only thing that helps me forget

Make me forget
Make me forget
Make me forget, [?]
Make me forget
Make me forget
Make me forget
Make me forget, [?]
Make me forget

You came along and just like nothing it happened
I could feel my broken heart beat again
For all the pain I don't want to remember
You're the only thing that helps me forget
