

Act My Age

Abstract

I remember thinking that this life was simple
Disney taught me love was something accidental
People acting happy with the devil that they know
Most live in a quiet hell they decided to call home
Sorry, I can't settle (Settle)
Label me that rebel (Rebel)
If somebody truly love me, I need every level
I need you inside my mind, every rabbit hole I dive
If I wake up around 2, could you call me down by 5?
Sorry that I want someone to understand me
Need somebody who won't ever seek a plan B
I'm aware that loving me ain't always easy
All I'm asking for is somebody who sees me

As I am, as a man
It gets harder every day
I made plans wrote in sand, they got washed out in the waves
From my bedroom to the stage, I know that a lot has changed
But I still don't act my age

Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
I still don't act my age
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
I still don't act my age
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
I still don't act my age
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
I still don't act my age

Lately my mind venturing the dead and gone
Gotten pretty used to loss and moving on
How many put me second, thought they were the one
I've been busy dealing bullets but a girl's a gun

As I am, as a man
It gets harder every day
I made plans wrote in sand, they got washed out in the waves
From my bedroom to the stage, I know that a lot has changed
But I still don't act my age

Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
I still don't act my age
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
I still don't act my age
Trust me, I know

Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
I still don't act my age
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
Trust me, I know
I still don't act my age
