Not Alone

Abstract

(You're not alone)
When your house is not a home
And you feel like you don't belong
'Cause all of the love is gone

(You're not alone) Yeah
When your house is not a home
And you feel like you don't belong
'Cause all of the love is gone
Just know that you're not alone
When you feel like you can't be strong
And you wanna give in but you don't
Just listen to this song
And know that you're not alone

Lead the team, keep the world on my back
I been lifting just to make sure that I never collapse
Keep my spirits high 'cause I know I inspire like that
But I'd be lying if I told you that it's easy as that
I came home to a house that wasn't home no more
I got memories, there's places I don't go no more
I looked around and felt like I ain't got the glow no more
Hundred thousand fans but some don't show no love no more
Like what do you want from me?
I give it all that I have
I'm out here breaking my back
I make the money but I put it back in the music
This ain't your typical rap
I see 'em buying a Benz, sorry I pay up my team
You think I'm livin' it up, keep it a buck
Yet to be living my dream

(You're not alone)
When your house is not a home
And you feel like you don't belong
'Cause all of the love is gone
Just know that you're not alone
When you feel like you can't be strong
And you wanna give in but you don't
Just listen to this song
And know that you're not alone

Hello, this is your conscience speaking
I'm here to give you the guidance you've been desperately seeking
Before I jump off the deep end this evening and start preaching
I want you to know everything happens for a reason
Believe in yourself, even when they doubt you (yeah)
Even when you're at your lowest and you don't know how to
There gon' come a time when they hate and talk about you
But when they do, smile, never let them arouse you
To the point where you get afraid, disarrayed, and question your existence
Listen, this the day you can wake up and make a difference
No more feeling distant, no more feeling useless, you can do this
No ignoring me, and most importantly, no more excuses
I'm tired of seeing you using your sight but not vision
And being the guy with the winning dice, that's not risking it all
I mean, as humans, we're all given flaws

But what's the point of life if you ain't living at all
I'm saying...

(You're not alone)
When your house is not a home
And you feel like you don't belong
'Cause all of the love is gone
Just know that you're not alone
When you feel like you can't be strong
And you wanna give in but you don't
Just listen to this song
And know that you're not alone

Sometimes I forget that I was living in my parents' house
Working out my bedroom, couple dollars in my bank account
I was dreaming 'bout the life that currently I'm living now
So why's it feel like I'm still seventeen and tryna find a route
I done toured the world by twenty five, got half a billion views
This is not a flex, it took nine years to walk this in my shoes
Conquered demons daily, fixed the heart that someone broke in two
I been to rock bottom, got back up, and rocked it past the roof
Underdog story, I do best when all the odds are stacked
Tire out opponents, last man standing, that's when I attack
Do this for the ones who never quit, no you are not alone
Do this for the ones who once were lost and turned it to a home

(You're not alone)
When your house is not a home
And you feel like you don't belong
'Cause all of the love is gone
Just know that you're not alone
When you feel like you can't be strong
And you wanna give in but you don't
Just listen to this song
And know that you're not alone

When your house is not a home
And you feel like you don't belong
'Cause all of the love is gone
