

Super Human

Abstract

When I was little, I thought I could save the world
Towel 'round my neck, I was Clark Kent
Flyin' like the sky was the livin' room floor
They said, "That boy's imagination
Really gonna take him places"
I knew my own imagination
Had already took me places

But I'm no superhero, just like you
I'm so superhuman, just like you
Senses turned so high
It hurts to feel alive
My heart works way too well
My mind stays somewhere else

As I grew older, I thought I could save my world
Found out heroes could be villains
And both of them are livin'
In the ways that we choose to fight our wars
We are the writers of our story
Some fight for love, and some for glory
We all got battles that stay to ragin' on the inside
Just hope the cape we choose is on the right side

But I'm no superhero, just like you
I'm so superhuman, just like you
Senses turned so high
It hurts to feel alive
My heart works way too well
My mind stays somewhere else

(Heyo) But I'm no superhero (I'm no superhero)
(Heyo) I'm so superhuman (so human)
(Heyo) Senses turned so high (so high)
(Heyo) It hurts to feel alive (alive)
(Heyo) My heart works way too well (too well)
(Heyo) My mind stays somewhere else
Heyo, heyo
Heyo, heyo
