

Titanic

Abstract

Yeah, yeah

You're the culprit for my heartache
The reason I feel stuck
I always knew it was a mistake
I tend to misplace my trust
Thought a lot 'bout
What I would say to you
What could cut deep
As the lies you used
But the truth is
All the spite that I'll ever need

Ten toes down, I keep my conscious one-hundred
You livin' life lie after lie, it makes you sick to your stomach
I know it because I've seen it
Those days you were breakin' down
I tried to keep you afloat but you been destined to drown
Cavin', thinking you could keep up with your own manipulation
Cape on 'til I realize that you aren't the type for savin'
Display GTA, it's not a game but I was wasted
No one can save this

Sinkin' ship you're steering while appearing so Titanic
Set your music to the scene but it don't change the fact it's tragic
Movies said lying's romantic, I'm so sorry you're so damaged
A reflection of your parents
Makeup on 'cause you can't stand it
Every time you're in the mirror, you see him
Repeating every little lie that he had ever hid
Caught inside a loop, think it's built into your blood
I hate your ass to death, but I still hope you find love