

Fire and Rain

Acceptance

Yeah we came for the fire but we stayed for the rain
And we count our time while we're feeling so sane
With a cannonball head and a paperback heart
Will you see where you've been when you get to the start

Last season of this masquerade
One decision from our lips

Will you cover your heart when you see what I've done
Will you look at my eyes as I stare at the sun
I see you falling asleep while I'm staying awake
I hear you calling my name when you make a mistake

I can see your breath, I'm looking around
You're running my way, I can't hear a sound
With a cannonball crash and a paperback spine
If I touch your face, tell me what will I find

Last season of this masquerade
One decision from our lips

Will you cover your heart when you see what I've done
Will you look at my eyes as I stare at the sun
I see you falling asleep while I'm staying awake
I hear you calling my name when you make a mistake

Meet me down by the furthest flame
And I'll take the blame, I'll take the blame

We came for the fire and drowned in the rain
We went in alone and came out the same

Will you cover your heart when you see what I've done
Will you look at my eyes as I stare at the sun
I see you falling asleep while I'm staying awake
I hear you calling my name when you make a mistake
