

Around Again

Acres

You got me holding on to a cut so deep
How can I fall asleep when you're all that I can think about?
Underneath, you can see I've become so weak
How will I sleep, you're all that I will dream about Some things I guess were never meant to be this way
Some things I guess are better going separate ways
You got me holding on to what I can't keep Now I'm left here waiting

You got your head up in the clouds, you got it all figured out
While I'm still searching for the reasons why it feels like I'll
l drown
And tell me how can I forget you when you're stuck in my head
Some things are better left unsaid

Around again
We go around again
Around again
But what we're searching for is never there

You got your head up in the clouds, you got it all figured out
While I'm still searching for the reasons why it feels like I'll
And tell me how can I forget you when you're stuck in my head

Around again
We go around again
Around again
But what we're searching for is never there
