

Lullaby

Acris

As your voice begins to fade
The colour falls from off your face
I think that I should go home
When food begins to lose its taste and your body feels out of place
I think that you should lie down
And I've been losing you when I've barely known you that long
And when you're holding my hand, I swear I'll never let it go

Death sings our song, our lullaby
Death sings our song, our lullaby

Are you comfortable?
Is there anything you need?
I hate to see you become a shadow of who you used to be
I look into your eyes and tell you everything will be just fine
'Cause I can't take your pain away but I can wish that it was mine

Death sings our song, our lullaby
Death sings our song, our lullaby

And I find it so hard there's no words to say
When it all falls apart and you fade away, where do I go?
And I find it so hard there's no words to say
When it all falls apart and you fade away, where do I go?

Death sings our song, our lullaby
Death sings our song, our lullaby

(And I find it so hard there's no words to say
When it all falls apart and you fade away, where do I go?
And I find it so hard there's no words to say
When it all falls apart and you fade away, where do I go?)