

The Etesian Wind

Acres

Here I stand empty handed
With a view up high of everything
Never knowing where I came from or where I've been A flash of light you're lost to me
Leave me in pieces with nothing for thought but the hearts of better men
Leave me here and I'll try to start again

I am not the one you want
What you are searching for lies in your heart
I am not the one you want
And all your promises will fall apart

Because your faith is just a front
Your faith is just a front
I wish that you'd see the truth, but the truth is that you can't
That your faith is just a front
Don't you try and turn away
Don't you dare forget my name

Here we stand empty handed
With a view up high of everything
Never knowing where we came from or where we've been
A flash of light and your lost to me
