

The Serpent's Downfall

Ad Infinitum

You can feel when the colours fade in the sorrows of the twilight
In your dreams, only sceneries of despair and demise

Does it feel like an endless road on a mountain that you climb
In the end, torments fly away like cinders in the wind

Memories of all these ashes
Thunder in a broken heart
Your destiny is not in the abyss of your doubts
Your cries

Take the pain, take the rain
They'll fade away
Save your tears and rise again
And your fears, now an echo
Of the one you once were
The serpent's downfall
Oh, the Serpent's downfall

There is a light, there is a spark of hope at the edge of the night
Break free, rise above fire, leave it all behind

Sail away from all the darkness
Keep your head above the clouds
Remember there is a dying sun you can ignite
Inside

Take the pain, take the rain
They'll fade away
Save your tears and rise again
And your fears, now an echo
Of the one you once were
The serpent's downfall
Oh, the Serpent's downfall

The serpent's fall
The darkness is gone, what are you waiting for Downfall
In goodness we trust, now we thrive, don't you let go!

Take the pain, take the rain
They'll fade away
Save your tears and rise again
And your fears, now an echo
Of the one you once were
The serpent's downfall
Oh, the Serpent's downfall