

Put Your Bags Down

Adam Cohen

Let your heart be unchained
Let you skin be unstained
Let your road be unnamed
Let your voice be unstrained

Let your hands touch what they cannot see
Let a boy become what his father knows he'll be

On this so called ride
When things get heavy just put your bags down
The train is always on time
The trick is to be ready
To put your bags down

Let your mother be worried
Let your father push you too early
The god of small things is always calling you
The god of small things has so many rules

If you hear a song you love then be a dancer
If you hear a question you don't know then let it go unanswered

On this so called ride
When things get heavy just put your bags down
The train is always on time
The trick is to be ready
To put your bags down

I'll be right by your side
I'll be right by your side
I'll be right by your side
Right by your side
On this so called ride

The train is always on time
The train is always on time
The train is always on time
The train is always on time
The trick is to be ready
To put your bags down
Yeah the trick is to be ready
To put your bags down
