

The Motto

Adam Saleh

All my life I've been searching for someone like you baby
All this time I've been wondering when I find my lady
So many dark thoughts on my mind late at night
That's the time that I lose my patience
Come to a realization that I

And this money comes first and these ladies come second
And this money comes first and this love come second
And this money comes first and these girls come second
That's the motherfucking motto baby
And this money comes first and these ladies come second
And this money comes first and this love come second
And this money comes first and these girls come second
That's the motherfucking motto baby

Why you mad, why you mad, I'm smiling
Low key walling
Just woke up and made a video
Got to take a flight out of the city though
I just landed this morning, leave in four hours
Sleep and then shower
She said time flies when you having fun
It's like I fit a week in an hour

We out here, we out here
She looks nice, I look twice
So thick but her hips don't lie
Now that would make a good wife
There you go, creating problems
I know what it takes to solve it
I used to do the Harlem Shake
Now I'm the shake of Harlem

All my life I've been searching for someone like you baby
All this time I've been wondering when I find my lady
So many dark thoughts on my mind late at night
That's the time that I lose my patience
Come to a realization that I

And this money comes first and these ladies come second
And this money comes first and this love come second
And this money comes first and these girls come second
That's the motherfucking motto baby
And this money comes first and these ladies come second
And this money comes first and this love come second
And this money comes first and these girls come second
That's the motherfucking motto baby

All I do is work, the love comes first and the money comes second
The stage getting merked, the show goes first and the money comes second
I know how to get by, I know how to stay fly, I know how to make funds
My circle is so small cause I got a good eye for spotting the fake ones
Me and slim done hated out the hood but we still some hoodlins
Smiles all around, somebody act up, we gon' take it back to Brooklyn
There you go, creating problems
I know what it takes to solve it
I used to do the Harlem Shake

Now I'm the shake of Harlem

All my life I've been searching for someone like you baby
All this time I've been wondering when I find my lady
So many dark thoughts on my mind late at night
That's the time that I lose my patience
Come to a realization that I

And this money comes first and these ladies come second
And this money comes first and this love come second
And this money comes first and these girls come second
That's the motherfucking motto baby
And this money comes first and these ladies come second
And this money comes first and this love come second
And this money comes first and these girls come second
That's the motherfucking motto baby
