

Thunder

Adam Sanders

Weatherman says it's sunny outside
Breeze is blowin', a high of eighty-five
Not a cloud in the sky
I can hear the neighbor's kids out in the street
Dogs are barkin' and the grass is green on the other side
It's mid-July

Oh, but you'd never tell by the way I'm stuck inside

It's all thunder and lightning
It's like Heaven opened up and started cryin'
Rainin' down on me and I can't see
No good silver lining in your goodbye
These storm clouds over my head
Been hangin' round since the moment you left
Should be jet trails, blue sky
Sunshine soakin' up the summer
But it's all thunder

When your taillights started fadin' out
That's when the wind started rollin' in
You could smell the rain, pain comin' from a mile away
Now I can't take a breath without thinkin' of you
It's like I'm drownin' in this living room
And it's killin' me, yeah, your memory

It's all thunder and lightning
It's like Heaven opened up and started cryin'
Rainin' down on me and I can't see
No good silver lining in your goodbye
These storm clouds over my head
Should be jet trails, blue sky
Sunshine soakin' up the summer
But it's all thunder

It's all heartbreak
It's all me and you covered in a dark shade
Black and blue, yeah, missin' you
Yeah, the same old pain, ain't nothing new

It's all thunder, lightning
It's like Heaven opened up and started cryin'
Rainin' down on me and I can't see
No good silver lining in your goodbye
These storm clouds over my head
Should be jet trails, blue sky
Sunshine soakin' up the summer
Still stuck here pretendin'
Holdin' you, tellin' you I love you
But it's all thunder
