

Define Me

Adept

Snap your fingers like you snap my fucking neck
Snap your fingers like you snap my fucking neck
Snap your fingers like you snap my fucking neck
Snap your fingers like you snap my fucking neck

You want to think that you figured out all the ways that I am and you hate what I stand for
You will not define me

No point in turning back
When you invested so much in these lies
I hear the static sound you make
Like the rattle from a snake

You can not take that the walls are closing in on you
That everything you every do will always be too late

I swear you change just like the weather
And I am standing here in your current thunder
I swear you change just like the weather
And I am standing here in your current thunder

Again, and again, and again
I'm repeating the fucking lines
If there's weakness you need, you will never have mine

It's not the place for you to find
The definition of you and I
So right here, right now in this time
You will not define me

I can feel you turn your back on me
Like you've done so many times before
Now you could you snap your fingers like you snap my fucking neck

No, you will not define me
No, you will not define me

I swear you change just like the weather
And I am standing here in your current thunder
I swear you change just like the weather
And I am standing here in your current thunder

You can not take that the walls are closing in on you
That everything you'll ever do will be too late
You can not take that the walls are closing in on you
That everything you'll ever do will be too late

No, you will sure not define me
No, no
You will not, you will not